WT trying to improve fire protection--Miller

Money sought for improvements

West Texas State University officials are correcting deficiencies in the campus fire protection system and are seeking state funding to further improve the system, WTSU Financial Vice President Hermas Miller said this week.

Miller's comments were in response to a News article which appeared Sunday concerning the campus fire protection system.

Miller said the university is seeking funds from the state legislature to begin a full safety program on campus, but that he doubts the legislature will allocate the money.

The university has requested, he said, funding from the legislature to provide adequate fire exits and fire protection equipment for the Old Administration Building and he expects that funding to be allocated with work to begin in September.

Plans for renovation of the underground utility line system on campus also call for upgrading the fire plug system on campus so adequate pressure will be available from on-campus plugs, Miller said.

"The revision of all utility lines will include some way to provide adequate water pressure for fire protection," he said.

A $100,000 allocation is sought, he said, to establish a safety program on campus for the education of personnel and posting of signs and such activities. But, while $200,000 is sought for the biennium, Miller said he doesn't believe the legislature will appropriate the money for that purpose.

"Two weeks ago, I personally visited with the state fire marshall in Austin and he is to send a team here for a complete fire prevention program," Miller said. "He says it will probably be next month before he can get the people here."

Miller said the visit from the fire marshall's office should tell university officials what is necessary to upgrade the university fire protection system and that "we'll do what is necessary."

He said the renovation planned for the Old Administration Building if funding is approved by the legislature will include making operative the water system in that building so stand-pipe fire extinguishers can be used.

Of the underground utility system, for which $300,000 was asked this year from the legislature, Miller said a consulting firm is working on plans to upgrade the fire protection system. He said the plans may call for establishment of eight-inch unmetered mains for fire plug installation.

Miller said all buildings

Electric system danger cited by two WT profs.

Two West Texas State University professors — one the chairman of the campus safety committee and the other well-versed on national safety standards — said this week that not only is the fire protection system at WTSU inadequate, but the electrical system is also dangerous.

But, they said, they've informed university officials of the inadequacies only to be told, in turn, that the university need not conform to safety standards because it is not compelled to do so.

"My committee's never functioned," Mike Workman of the industrial education department said bitterly. "We don't have to comply — that's the reason it doesn't function."

Dr. Wallace Johnston, also of the industrial education department, said he's met with administrators several times in the past two to three years to discuss safety standards, but that he has met with little success.

Johnston, who has attended state and national seminars on safety standards, said he met once with former WTSU financial vice president Virgil Henson to discuss campus safety and was told, in essence:

"He told me it was too expensive, that we don't have to comply, that they don't inspect, and that we couldn't get people to bid if they knew they would be dogged into following the law."

Johnston said the university is exempted from state law which has incorporated federal Occupational Safety and Health Act guidelines and made them applicable to businesses and other institutions in the state.

"We don't have to comply, but we're not doing the things we know to do — like the fire protection stuff. We know better than that," he said.

Johnson said common sense dictates that certain safety standards be followed, whether state law mandates such compliance or not. And, he said, WTSU has a history of fires in various buildings.

Workman said without administration support his committee would "just be wearing out the heels of our shoes" in an effort to maintain a vigil on safety on campus.

"Somebody's got to assume some responsibility and until they do and delegate some authority, there's no way we can do anything about safety on this campus," Workman said.

"This kind of thing caused the death of one girl up at Panhandle State," Johnston said, referring to the recent death of a college student who was killed when gas lines exploded in her campus housing unit. "We could be next. But, does this kind of thing have to happen before we wake

Proposed new law would force rules

Legislation now pending in Austin could place West Texas State University under state law which mandates occupational safety and health standards now for private businesses and institutions.

If passed by House and Senate, the legislation would require the university to bring its fire protection system up to state standards.

The bill incorporates for state institutions, municipalities and state agencies state standards on occupational health and safety which were incorporated into the state law from the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

The act proposed for passage in Austin would create a Division of Occupational Safety in the State Department of Health and would create a State Occupational Safety Board.

State inspectors would inspect state institutions for safety standards under the law, and could issue citations for violations of the standards. Penalties

Local officials cool to plan for publicly-owned airport

Planners for a Texas airport system said Tuesday they'd like to see a municipally-owned airport serving Canyon, but city and county officials here are cool to such a suggestion.

Nine local residents, including representatives of city and county government and the chamber of commerce, in Amarillo Tuesday attended a two-hour session on general aviation airport needs in a five-county Panhandle area.

Officials from the Texas Aeronautics Commission, the Texas Transportation Institute and the Federal Aviation Agency outlined briefly their ideas on the airport needs of residents of Armstrong, Carson, Hutchison, Potter and Randall counties.

"We feel based on statistical information Canyon needs and would support and would benefit from a general aviation airport," George Dresser of the Texas Transportation Institute told local officials.

Jim McCausland of the Texas Aeronautics Commission said the Texas Airport System Plan has tentatively suggested a municipal airport for Canyon.

"We think Canyon ought to have one," he said.

John Childs, former president of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, pointed out to the officials that the Can-Am airport, which formerly operated just east of the city on U.S. 60, is now out of operation.

However, William Gartrell, one-time operator of the Can-Am facility, told the visiting officials he has opened a new turf-landing strip airport about five miles north of Canyon off the VFW Road and indicated he is interested in turning the facility over to either the City of Canyon or to Randall County for operation as a publicly-owned airport.

McCausland asked City Admin. Asst. Tom Plumlee whether any real interest had been expressed to the city concerning municipally-owned airports for the city.

"There's been very little interest expressed to city officials," Plumlee said.

George Blackwell, a local insurance agent and pilot, told the TAC officials money is needed to upgrade Gartrell's private airport, which is currently home base for 16 private planes.

While state and federal funds are available for upgrading or even for establishment of publicly-owned airports in the state, McCausland said no such funds would be available for a privately-owned airport facility.

He suggested that Gartrell sell the facility to the city, if funds are needed to upgrade the airport.

Ray Hampton of the Federal Aviation Administration said he believes it would not be difficult to obtain federal funding for a city or county-owned airport here.

For nearly an hour Tuesday afternoon, the three officials showed slides on the types of airports in Texas and the types of funding available to upgrade or establish airports.

They said local airports serve

Elusive man is sought, not found

A man wanted for burglary in Farwell remained at large Wednesday after Randall County deputies and Canyon police conducted an hours-long search for him in North Canyon Monday.

The man, described by Farwell officials as about 40 years of age with greying hair, evaded police here after running from Byrd's Pharmacy about 10 a.m. Monday.

Deputy Recil Johnson and Sheriff Cliff Longest feel the suspect has probably left Canyon.

Local law enforcement officials began looking for the suspect about 10 a.m. after receiving a message from Farwell deputies that the man was probably at the local bus station in Byrd Pharmacy. Johnson said the man is wanted in Farwell under one burglary indictment and is accused of pulling another burglary there Sunday night.

Acting on the information from Farwell, Johnson went to the drug store between 10 and 10:30 a.m. to look for the suspect.

"I went to the bus station and he walked in while I was there," Johnson said. "He kind of fit the description and I came back here to check the description and when I went back he was gone."

Johnson alerted other deputies and city police, who began a search for the suspect. City employees spotted the man in the 1200 block of Third Avenue, but no sign of him could be found by officers.

Johnson said the man had purchased a ticket to ride the bus to Post.

The deputies called off their search at dark Monday and Johnson speculated the man made it to the highway and was able to hitch a ride.

The man described by Johnson weighs about 170 pounds, stands about 5-6 and has a "pot belly." He was wearing blue jeans when last seen.

Change due around June 1

Hunsley trash collection altered

Hunsley Hills residents will have to carry their trash to the street curb after June 1 if they want the city to haul it off.

Canyon City Commissioners decided Monday night to speed up the garbage collection in the North Canyon subdivision after hearing a report from City Manager Glen Metcalf.

Metcalf is expected to send letters outlining the trash pick-up program for the Hunsley Hills area to residents.

Metcalf told commissioners trash pick-up in Hunsley Hills is more time-consuming than any other area of the city and that city collectors now must go onto private property — into garages and back yards — to pick up garbage cans.

Because there are no alleys in Hunsley Hills, he said, city trash collectors must travel the city streets, stop their vehicles at curbside and walk onto private citizens property to collect the garbage. This situation, he said, could eventually lead to civil suits and he said he'd prefer that city collectors not go onto private property.

Metcalf also suggested it might be advisable to consider requiring Hunsley Developer A. W. Lair to install alleys in the yet-to-be-platted portions of his development.

He estimated that by requiring residents of the development to place their trash at curbside the collection time for Hunsley Hills could be halved.

Commissioners authorized Metcalf to change the system in the development and urged that the new system be put into operation as soon after June 1 as practical. Metcalf said under the new system trash would be picked up at curbside in the Hunsley area on Tuesdays and Fridays between 10 a.m. and noon.

In other business Monday night, commissioners heard a formal proposal from Dr. T. Paige Carruth, student affairs vice president at West Texas State University, and Hermas Miller, financial affairs vice president, for installation of a cable television system for the city.

Mayor Manly Bryan said the Miller-Carruth proposal will be studied along with the proposal for a similar service from T. D. Austin of Amarillo on May 20. He indicated, however, that no decision is expected to come out of that meeting.

Miller and Carruth propose to operate TV Cable, Inc., and they presented a formal franchise proposal to the commissioners. Austin two weeks ago had presented his formal proposal for a similar service.

Principals in the Miller-Carruth cable television system would include the two WTSU vice presidents along with Tom Creighton, a Mineral Wells attorney, and David Cleveland, another Mineral Wells attorney.

According to information provided by Miller and Carruth, Creighton is currently involved in cable systems in Jacksboro, Bowie and Possum Kingdom Lake. He is secretary-treasurer of TOCOM, Inc., a manufacturer of cable TV electronic equipment.

The two propose to provide the same basic station package as that offered by Austin in his proposal. Monthly rate for the system would be $7 for residents for the first television set connection and $1.50 for each additional connection. Installation charge would be $12.50.

The four men propose a 15-year franchise and will pay the city a 3 per cent franchise fee based on gross income. They propose to have the system in operation within one year after approval of the franchise by the Federal

CHS summer courses for adults, students

The Canyon School Board, along with Supt. Jerry Jacobs and Vocational Education Director Ken Hart, have announced courses available this summer through the Community Education Program.

To date, three courses have been set up.

A Family Awareness course will be taught by Mrs. Janet Fincher and Mrs. Kathy Cameron with classes meeting June 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 17 and 18th. The 16-hour course is for adults and a fee of $5 will be charged. The class will meet from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in room 33 of Canyon High School.

The course will include discussion periods, guest speakers, films and field trips on such subjects as venereal disease, birth control, birth defects, abortion and epilepsy.

A sewing course is also planned for the summer beginning Tuesday, June 24. The class will be taught by Mrs. Connie Wooten every Tuesday, for six weeks from 2 to 4 p.m. in room 60 of CHS. A fee of $8 will be charged and the course is for youth and adults.

The course will concentrate on the sewing of knits and stretch fabrics into such things as men's trousers, shirt jackets, sports shirts, western shirts, and ties.

The third course being offered is Basic Water Color Painting. This course begins Thursday, June 12, and will meet every Thursday for six weeks at CHS from 3 to 5 p.m. and will be taught by Mrs. Penny Allen.

The course is open to adults and youth with a fee of $8 charged.

The class is designed for beginners and will provide basic understanding and appreciation of water color painting. The course will offer studies of using wet on wet, and dry brush techniques as well as other various painting techniques.

According to Dr. Ken Hart,

Former president wants busy C of C

A former president of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce told board members of that group Monday night they should become involved in more local activities.

David West, who served on the board for several years, told the members they cannot expect local merchants to want to join the chamber or to pay higher membership dues unless they can expect more activity from the chamber board.

"I'd like to see more action out of the chamber," West said. "I've heard talk of raising dues on memberships and I think that's fine but until we see more action out of the chamber it'll be hard to see members pay an increase of dues."

West pointed out that in the past the chamber board has sponsored many activities which got the name of the chamber before not only the Canyon public, but also the general public in the Panhandle. He pointed specifically to the home show sponsored here by the chamber several years ago.

West suggested that with a nearly-completed color film on Canyon and the immediate area, chamber officials should begin a road trip to various Panhandle cities to speak on the city and its assets.

"Perhaps you can come up with better ideas," he said, "and I know you can to do more to get attention for the chamber of commerce."

Board Member Don Johnston defended the chamber at least partially by pointing out the annual budget for the board, a budget which is $12,000 this year.

"That's the sorriest budget I've ever seen for a town this size," he

Legislators ask change in gas rules

Texas legislators have passed a resolution similar to one passed recently by Randall County commissioners asking the U.S. Congress to instruct the Federal Power Commission to restore natural gas for irrigation purposes to a number two priority in fuel allocation figurings.

A concurrent resolution introduced in the Senate by several senators including Amarillo's Max Sherman calls for the action by Congress.

County commissioners here in March called on the legislature to pass such a resolution urging the restoration of the number two priority for natural gas.

The resolution passed by Senate and House notes that natural gas serves more than 50,000 irrigation wells in the Panhandle and South Plains areas.

The FPC in December changed the priority of natural gas for irrigation purposes to a number 3 priority.

I was challenged on only one point in last week's column about postal workers and that was on the $7.50 an hour pay scale.

I had asked a postal official and got this figure from him. I'm sure he gave it to me from the hip and didn't stop to figure it out exactly.

On this page is a letter to the editor from Postmaster Lee Roy Moreland.

Here's an excerpt from what he has to say on the matter:

"Just for the record," says the postmaster, "My latest print-out for the letter carrier craft for the 28 day period ending March 28, 1975 revealed a total cost of $8.0310 per hour including overtime for salary and fringe benefits."

If the demands of the National Association of Letter Carriers (AFL-CIO) as outlined in its April bulletin are met, that figure is going to be a lot higher.

To cap it off NALC is asking for a lighter work load.

If we want to maintain a standard of living anywhere close to that to which we've become accustomed we'd all better go back to work.

On every hand we see people demanding more pay for less work.

I think that this as much as anything else is reflected in the inflation with which we are now saddled. If we get out, we're going to have to work our way out.

Our competitors are working — Japan, Germany, China and Russia. Japan has taken over our electronics industry simply because Japanese can produce transistors cheaper than we can.

Liberals in government who have never earned a dime think they can solve all problems by pouring money on them. Appropriate a billion, 2 billion, 100 billion. All their appropriations do not put a single ham sandwich on one American table.

The man who puts the ham on the table is the man who helps the sow to farrow, nurses the piglet, feeds the pig, butchers him, packages him and markets him.

Government for the last 40 years has encouraged people to work less and we are reaping the results in shortages, recession and inflation. If laziness and waste got us here, then isn't it reasonable that thrift and labor would help get us out of our predicament.

What does a raise in minimum wage mean to the worker who finds himself keeping less money because the cost of living jumped with his wages?

For those who saved in years gone by to care for themselves in old age it spells disaster because their savings are eroded.

Social security is worse than wiped out. It is a debacle of the first magnitude.

If I could give one piece of advice now I would say work America, work as though your very life depends upon it. In truth it does!

City Seminar Is Today

Newly-elected city commissioners from several Panhandle area cities will be in Canyon today, Friday and Saturday for a new orientation program at West Texas State University.

Sponsored by the department of political science under the College of Arts and Sciences, the seminar will feature such speakers as State Sen. Max Sherman, Ben F. McDonald Jr., executive director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, and Amarillo Mayor L. Ray Vahue.

Dr. Walter L. Shelly, assistant professor of political science, is seminar director.

Shelly said the three-day program is designed to impart to newly-elected city commissioners information about city government which it might otherwise take them months to gather.

The seminar begins at 11 a.m. today when Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, welcomes the participants to the campus.

Vahue will open the seminar with a speech entitled 'Introduction to a Great Experience."

A key feature of the seminar will be McDonald's speech — "The Texas Department of Community Affairs; What We Can Do for Your Community" — which is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday on campus. McDonald will be keynote speaker at a banquet for the participants and other interested guests.

Sherman will address the group at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. His topic is "The Texas Constitution and Municipal Government."

Other sessions will cover municipal law, regional planning, decision-making, the press, city budgets, staffing and finances.

Speakers for the sessions include Dr. J. Pat Stephens, a professor of political science and a Canyon city commissioner; George Loudder, director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission; Baldwin Stribling, a local minister; Elton Cox, Canyon city attorney; Carroll Wilson, editor of The Canyon News; Wayne Hughes, head of the WTSU broadcast bureau; George Ritter, a former Canyon city commissioners and a political science professor; Jack Muthersbough, geography professor; and John Stiff, Amarillo city manager.

Dear Editor:

Current pay including cost of living allowances for a full-time city carrier with eight years service is $13,171.00. This carrier receives a uniform allowance, basic life insurance and approximately 65% of a health insurance premium paid for an approximate value of $770.00 per year. Annual leave or vacation time is earned according to length of service for 13, 20 or 26 days per year. Sick leave is earned and accumulated at 13 days per year. Nine paid holidays per year.

If you take a carrier in the top step, earning 26 days annual leave at the present salary it amounts to a base pay of $5.8524 per hour, add the cost of living allowance and it gives $6.3322 per hour. Adding the cost of fringe benefits gives a cost of $6.70 per hour to the Postal Service, which would be 70¢ per hour less than the published figure of May 1, 1975 editorial.

This carrier has a definite route to follow each working day of the year. If he or she is replaced by an employee in the same pay scale, length of service, while on annual leave that person has to be paid also, so in the final delivery of a customers mail the cost to the Postal Service for this employee runs about $7.51 per hour. This does not allow a fixed price for any time off due to illness or cost of transportation. The figure of $7.51 per hour is a fixed cost to the Postal Service for this route to be served and not the actual take home pay of the carrier.

Due to the type work performed a postal clerk is not replaced on an hour for hour basis when they are on annual leave, consequently that employees cost to the Postal Service is less per hour even though the base pay is the same. Each division or craft, ie: rural carriers, supervisors, equipment and building personnel, cleaning and protective personnel and postmasters all have a different base pay.

Just for the record, my latest print-out for the letter carrier craft for the 28 day period ending March 28, 1975 revealed a total cost of $8.0310 per hour including overtime for salary and fringe benefits.

4-H Teams Place

The Range and Pasture Grass Identification Team and the Dairy Cattle Judging Team representing Randall County 4-H received awards at the District I contests held Saturday, May 3, at West Texas State University.

Approximately 263 4-H boys and girls from 21 of the 22 counties in Extension District I were involved in the competition prior to the State 4-H Roundup at College Station next month. Neither of the Randall County teams qualified in the senior level to attend the state roundup this year.

The Range and Pasture Grass Identification team consisting of Jeff Downing, Bruce Hartman, James Irlbeck and Jill Leavitt won a third place in the senior section for that contest.

The Dairy Cattle Judging team won first place in the junior division. Team members included Edwin Wilhelm, Jay Friemel, Bernie Wieck, and Allen Suthers.

They flew back to Gerald's, where they picked up their car and started home. They stopped near Temple to visit Glen and Alice Mae McKenzie, who used to live here. In Temple, they visited Alice Mae's mother, Mrs. McDonald. They stopped in Montague, to visit Henry and Mae Beckman. Henry is Charley's brother. They also visited Mrs. Catherine Cannon, in Van Alstyne.

WE CELEBRATED OUR 42nd wedding anniversary last Sunday. We all went out to the Kenneth Artho's for a covered dish supper. The children gave us a beautiful set of stoneware dishes, which we are enjoying very much. Attending the supper were Barbara and Bernard Hartman and family, Louis, Jr Don and Gracie Raef and children, Marion and Suzy Hicks and boys, Mike and Margaret Browder and Joe, Les and Mary Goodin, Kevin and Lewie and I.

We had phone calls from Helen, Mike and Andy and Edith, so we really had an enjoyable day, thanks to our children.

Law . . .

for violations would come in district court as the state board would be entitled to file for injunctive relief.

Under the act, the employer could be required to conduct periodic inspections of his own institution and employers could be required to post notices to keep employees informed of their protections and obligations under the act.

Inspections by the state may also be initiated by any employee or employee representative "who believe that a violation of a safety or health standard exists that threatens physical harm or that an imminent danger exists . . ."

One section of the proposed law stipulates that state standard for safety and health already in existence for private institutions would be extended to public institutions.

Federal standards included in state standards which would be made applicable to institutions such as WTSU provide strict guidelines for such things as stand-pipe fire extinguisher systems, which do not function in the Old Administration Building or the Education Building on campus; for electrical wiring, which have been determined inadequate and dangerous on campus; to fire exits, many of which are locked or blocked on campus; and to other employee health practices.

said. "You can't expect the chamber of commerce to do very much without a budget to do it with. You can't get action without something to work with. We're going to have to raise dues if we want action."

West agreed that the dues to belong to the chamber are "very low" in Canyon, but he said he doubted whether the chamber could increase the dues unless they began to become actively involved in projects here.

Acting chairman Cordell Huddleston, vice president of the chamber, instructed board members to come up with ideas for projects the chamber board could steer.

In other business Monday night, the board discussed plans for the upcoming Canyon Days Celebration, which this summer will be on July 4. Current plans call for a parade, barbecue and various Canyon bicentennial activities.

to enhance industrial development and also provide quick service for medical emergencies.

City Manager Glen Metcalf, who did not attend the Tuesday meeting, was less than enthusiastic about the prospect of the City of Canyon owning and operating an airport facility.

"I have a lot of priorities here and an airport is not in the top 100 of these priorities," he said. "Let the county have it. It (the Cartrell field) is outside our ETJ (extraterritorial jurisdiction)."

Metcalf said the city operated an airport in Abernathy — the town for which he was city manager before coming to Canyon — and he described the operation as "a real headache."

County Judge Woody Pond, who attended a portion of the Tuesday session, was not particularly enthusiastic himself.

He said he doubts whether an expenditure for operation of an airport could be justified.

"Do we need an airport in the county?" he asked, noting that Tradewinds Airport is only about 15 minutes from Canyon in Randall County.

on campus are insured by the state and, therefore, if they burned down the insurance rates for Canyon residents would not be affected. He said the activities center and new dorms on campus are also privately insured, but if the state chose to replace those buildings and no insurance claim were filed those losses would not affect the city's fire rate, either.

In other safety-related matters Miller said the fact that most buildings on campus do not have a third-wire ground is not viewed as a major hazard because most of the plugs in the buildings are not used for the kinds of appliances which require grounding.

Miller said he feels he is committed to safety standards on the campus even though state law does not force the university to comply with safety laws.

"In the new fine arts building I have instructed the architect to comply with all standards we possibly can," he said. "There's the OSHA standards and the National Building Code and we're trying to comply with all those we possibly can so far as windows, doors and adequate fire escape routes and everything."

Communications Commission.

In response to a question from commissioner J. Pat Stephens, Miller said he does not believe the fact that he and Carruth are connected with West Texas State would pose any conflict of interest.

"I've already investigated that and there's no conflict of interest," he said, "because it's a burden on the company to provide these facilities. West Texas State University won't pay a nickel."

Commissioners rejected bids from two local firms for a new police department investigation van. Imperial Chevrolet bid $4095 with trade to provide the van and Stevenson Motor Co. bid $4093 with trade for the van.

The city had budgeted $3600 for the van. Bids will be sought again for the van with air conditioning included as an option.

Commissioners authorized the issuance of $90,000 in certificates of obligation to pay for work completed or the new city hall during the month of April. The Monday authorization means that construction on the new building is more than one-half complete. Certificates totalling $791,000 have been issued since construction began on the $1.6 million building.

Power Commission without providing notice to the farmers of the Panhandle and South Plains area and without providing an opportunity for them to present evidence or testimony to the commission on this very important matter," the resolution states.

The resolution notes the importance of irrigation to the economy and agriculture of the state and also notes the availability of natural gas and unavailability of other types of fuel for irrigation wells.

Both houses resolved to ask Congress to instruct the FPC to restore the number two priority "before there is extensive and lasting damage to the economy of the Panhandle and South Plains of Texas and serious disruption of the national economy."

PTA Presented Life Memberships

By KAROLYN FARMER

IT'S COUNT-DOWN TIME. Just in case your children haven't told you yet, there are now only three more weeks of school. But at Gene Howe there are definitely many exciting things yet to come.

THE LAST PTA meeting for this year was held last Monday night and it was really a perfect ending to a great year for Gene Howe PTA.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of PTA Life Memberships to Margie Phillips, our school music teacher, and Ernestine Harp, our PTA President for the past two years.

Margie Phillips is without a doubt one of the most loved people in our community. Her children attended Gene Howe and she worked at the school in several other capacities before becoming music teacher. Margie's devotion to our children and our school is unending. And we are so proud and grateful to have her at Gene Howe.

Ernestine Harp has had children at Gene Howe since the school's beginning 10 years ago. And through all these years she has given so much of her time in a special, loving way to promote the welfare of our children, which is the prime PTA goal, and hers, too.

Both of these women are truly beautiful people and it was our honor and pleasure to honor them last Monday night.

Another part of the last PTA meeting was the installation of PTA officers for next year. Troyce Mulherin, past Gene Howe PTA President and present District 8 PTA Vice President, was in charge of the installation.

Installed as officers for the coming year were: Karolyn Farmer, President; Sherry Cates, 1st Vice President; Sandra Wait, 2nd Vice President; Linda Ford, Corresponding Secretary; Glenna Schmidt, Treasurer; Doris McKee, Reporter; Jackie Mayfield; Historian; and Phyllis Hicks, Parliamentarian.

Marion Marrs and Georgia Sorrells will serve as Room Representative Co-Chairmen. And Raydell Palmer will serve again as our very capable Hospitality Chairman.

The 1st grade classes of Mrs. Portia Tillinghast, Mrs. Alicia Niemeier and Miss Pam Layman presented the program for the evening. Margie Phillips directed the children as they presented "Mother Goose."

The show was really darling and all the kids and their teachers had obviously worked very hard. All the mothers deserve a lot of credit, too, for the precious costumes worn by the children.

A special thanks to Rhenea Ballard, who has Flowers by Rhenea' for the lovely corsages for our 1st grade teachers and honorees.

And also much appreciation goes to Raydell Palmer and all the mothers who helped with the refreshments for the meeting.

Boy Scout Troop 112, led by Don Glenn, conducted the very impressive flag ceremony and really did a great job.

BE SURE TO visit the Heritage Woman's Club Bazaar this Saturday, May 10th. The Village Shoppe in the Palo Duro Shopping Center is the place and the hours will be from 10:00 to 6:00.

Marion Marrs, club president, tells me there will be items of all sizes and price ranges offered for sale. There will be many things just perfect for Mother's Day gifts, including long hostess aprons, gingham purses, flower arrangements and needlepoint. Also many baked goods, including lots of homemade bread, can be bought at the bazaar.

All proceeds from the bazaar will go toward helping defray the expenses of a specially equipped van for Kelly Forehand.

THE STUDENT TEACHERS from West Texas are still doing their practice teaching at Gene Howe. I had a chance to visit with some of them this week and thought you might enjoy learning something about them.

Sheri Stribling has been helping out in Jerri Langen's 3rd grade room. Sheri is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Stribling and her father is pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Canyon.

Originally from Chicago, Ill., Sheri is planning to enter the Air Force upon her graduation from WT. She hopes to go on to graduate school and obtain a degree in special education.

Rojanna Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harvey of Plains, Tex. She has been gaining experience this spring working in Mrs. Alicia Niemeier's 1st grade room. Rojanna will graduate from college this summer and hopes to teach in a school somewhere in this area next fall.

CONGRATULATIONS TO SEVERAL of our area young people. Jana Tipps has been selected as one of the 7th grade cheerleaders for next year at Canyon Junior High.

Rhonda Moore and Brenda Henry will help lead the cheers at all the sophomore activities next year at CHS.

Kim Wallace and Steve Zanchettin will represent the sophomore class on the CHS student council this coming school year.

DONNA DICKSON IS a new student in Carol Hollingsworth's morning kindergarten class. She is the daughter of Johnny and Eunice Dickson and has two younger sisters, Leah and Tamara.

The Dicksons recently moved from Pleasant Valley and they now live on Canyon Drive. Mr. Dickson is self-employed.

A BIG HAPPY birthday to Chris Trammell who just turned 10 on May the 2nd. Helping Chris and his family celebrate the big occasion was Pat Sparkman, who also spent the night at the Wendell Trammell home. Besides eating birthday cake, Chris and Pat managed to get in quite a bit of horseback riding during the week-end.

ONE OF THE most special events of the year is coming up this next Monday, May 12th. Our 6th graders, led by Margie Phillips, will present a concert and they will feature the music and styles of the '50s. (Shades of "Happy Days" — I wonder who will play Fonzie).

There will be no charge for the program and everyone is invited to come. Our 6th grade class this year is not only large in numbers, but also in spirit and enthusiasm, and it promises to be a great evening.

ELIZABETH WILSON, OUR librarian at Gene Howe, is particularly grateful to several of the industrious and talented 6th graders who have been helping to brighten the library with their art work.

Duane Dove decorated one of the library bulletin boards with a huge and really darling bunny rabbit who is encouraging everyone to "Hop Into Spring."

Lee Boren, Troy Holeman and Chris Hanson have all been making animals and pictures for Elizabeth to use during story-time.

Next week Glen Lewis will put on a puppet show for the kindergarten children when they visit the library.

EDGAR SELLER'S UNCLE, Mr. J.F. Pierson, passed away last Friday, April 25th and funeral services were held the following Monday in Amarillo. Our sympathies go to Edgar, Gwyn and their family.

THE AMERICAN LEGION Long Course Swim Meet was held this past week-end at WT. John Hicks swam in competition for the first time. And although he didn't win in his events, he reportedly has big plans for the future.

Sheila Hicks, along with the three other girls on her relay team, received a gold medal in the 400 free relay and a bronze medal in the 400 medley relay. Sheila also earned a first place in each of the following "B" events: 100 breast, 50 free and 500 free.

She won 3rd place honors in both the 100 free and 200 individual medley and a 4th place in the 100 back stroke event.

THE GENE HOWE Memory Books for this year are in and went on sale to the students last Friday, May 2nd. Elizabeth Wilson did a great job compiling the yearbook and deserves a big thanks for all her hard work.

AS YOU PROBABLY know, 4th grade children have a natural talent for making great messes, and this week Mrs. Rosemary Ramaekers' class was proof positive. But fortunately they all had their teacher's permission and the results were works of art.

When I visited Mrs. Ramaeker's room this last Friday the students were involved in finishing their dioramas (three dimensional scenes in cardboard boxes) which were to be judged the following Monday.

During the school year the children have studied about many of the nations of the world and each child chose one of those countries as the subject of his or her diorama.

Fourth graders may be a little messy, but they're also very imaginative.

Denise Morgan and Margaret White pictured the busy city of Denver, Colo. backed by the beautiful mountains. Leslie Martindale transformed her box into an African jungle complete with a huge snake and a very realistic looking tiger.

Kelly Williams chose to picture London with the Tower and Big Ben as her focal point.

Jason Bass and Michael Longhofer were obviously fascinated by their study of Australia. They portrayed the life of the Pitjantjatjara people (they could say that but I couldn't) and even made a small campfire with a weasel being roasted over the coals.

Dwayne Hollis also pictured life in the Australian bush country. A native man was guarding the door of his mud hut while a dead wallaby lay nearby. (I could tell it was dead, and Dwayne said it was a wallaby).

Andy Bailey made a very realistic scene of a coal mine in Africa. His diorama must have been fun to make — you know it takes a lot of rocks and dirt to make a coal mine.

Mrs. Ray Hamilton is the student teacher assigned to Mrs. Ramaekers' room. She is from Wellington and now lives in Amarillo where her husband is employed as a plumber's apprentice.

I think Mrs. Hamilton is just as proud of the children's projects as they are. She showed me the potato print pictures hanging in the hall, the stained glass butterfiles and the wooden spoon puppets.

Tacked on one bulletin board were the children's maps of Great Britain and a large picture of Lassie. I was told that the class studied the book "Lassie Come Home" and traced her adventures as Lassie traveled through England.

In case you're wondering where Mrs. Ramaekers was during this time, I found her in the workroom under a pile of diagnostic tests that she was grading — there's just no rest for the dedicated.

ALL THE 2ND graders will take their field trip on Thursday, May 15th. The 3rd grade field trip is scheduled for Friday, May 16th.

LOOKING AHEAD: GENE Howe Day at Wonderland Park will be Monday, May 26th.

Baby Boy's Birth Told By Morrises

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Don Morris of Rt. 2, Amarillo, announce the birth of a son, Johnathan Dewayne, on April 24 at Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon.

The baby boy weighed 8 pounds, 13¼ ounces at birth and measured 20¼ inches on arrival. His father is an employee of Amarillo Diesel.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Edna Crow of Hereford and Melvin Morris of Hurst. The maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Roy Carthel, are deceased.

Playwright Takes Look At 'TEXAS'

Joshua Logan, Pulitzer prize winning playwright, author and director, served as artist-in residence for West Texas State University theatrical students last week.

While in the Canyon area, Mr. Logan and his wife accompanied Mrs. Ples Harper and Raymond Raillard of the outdoor musical drama "TEXAS" to Palo Duro Canyon Saturday morning for a visit at the Pioneer Amphitheatre.

A thorough description of the "TEXAS" production was given the Logans and Pat Jarrett, sound and light crew chief, played portions of the musical numbers of the show beginning with the bugle call which opens the production and other musical sounds of the show including the closing music to which the horsemen carry their flags ending the show.

The group had lunch at the Goodnight Trading Post and later visited the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum where the Logans were high in their praise of the Pioneer Village and other displays.

As the Logans departed for the return trip to their home in New York City, they had plans for leaving soon for London, England where he will be directing a new musical production.

The Garden Spot

By RICK WILCOX

It's time to talk tomatoes. First of all, there are several ways to get your plants: (1) raise your own indoors from seed, (2) plant seeds directly in your garden, and (3) buy young plants to set in your garden. Of the three, the last is far the easiest and will get you the earliest production. Starting your own at home is sometimes necessary if you want a special variety not sold as transplants, but otherwise is not worth the trouble. Direct seeding is too slow.

Five or six plants of a standard variety such as Beefsteak will provide the average family with all the tomatoes they need. Look for sturdy plants with good green color. Try to avoid spindly plants, but don't reject as otherwise healthy looking transplant for being slightly on the skinny side. When you get your plants home, protect them from wind and harsh sun while you prepare their planting sites.

In a small space like our minigarden, I suggest growing tomatoes with a support, although many people prefer to let them spread. Your support can be a stake, fence or trellis, but a cage is hard to beat for protection from hail and overall convenience (no tying or pruning necessary). Take a four foot width of heavy chicken wire, swine fence (best) or similar screening and form it into an open-end cylinder of 10-12 inches diameter. Your tomato will grow up the center of the cage and over the end when it reaches the top. You'll need one cage per plant.

Next dig a deep planting hole to hold each cage and plant. Mix a three lb. coffee can of dried manure, a double handful of bone meal and a double handful of crushed eggshells into each hole. Set your cages deeply and securely into the holes.

After setting your cages, plant a tomato in the center of each. Nearly bury each plant. Only the top one-third of each plant should show above ground. New roots will grow from the buried stem portions, helping to quickly and firmly anchor and feed your plants in their new locations. Water well and mulch with hay or dried grass clippings. As your tomatoes grow, keep all growth tucked inside the cages until they reach the top and spill over.

Watch for tomato horn worms (big, green and ugly). They can gobble a whole plant in no time. If you see one, simply knock him off with a stick and stomp him. For other pests, spraying with soapy water or garlic juice, diluted about 20-1 with water, will generally suffice. Any necessary additional fertilizing can be done with a fish fertilizer spray available cheaply as a concentrate from most nurseries and garden departments. Neither smells. This supplemental fertilizing can be a valuable protection against pests. Like other animal world regulators, insects generally attack the weakest and unhealthiest plants first. Your best defense against pests is a healthy plant.

Until next time. . . .

He based his speech on the verse in Proverbs which states, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Neal stated that Jaycee leadership was the greatest challenge to young men, a compelling call to leadership to look ahead. His final statement was "I double dare you to become a dynamic leader in Jaycees or Jaycee-Ettes."

FRIDAY EVENING, WE attended the Clarendon Jr. College rodeo. We were eating a sandwich at a drive-in there when David Martin Lane walked up and said, "Don't I know you?" I told him of course he knew me.

He insisted that we go by his home and say hello to his Mom and Dad, but what he didn't realize that it was going to be 11:45 when we got home anyway. Maybe next time.

THE WEATHER HAS been windy. Days with forty to sixty mile an hour winds have been more common lately than pretty days. I wonder if the wind blows this way every year or if I am just letting it "get to me" more this year. Several have already answered me with it blows this way every year.

Isn't life wonderful when it lets you forget the unpleasantness and remember only the good.

The latest bumper sticker that impressed me (other than EAT MORE BEEF) was "God knows the number of hairs on your head - AND YOUR WIG, TOO!"

Take care!

NCAA Suggests Cutbacks In Athletic Departments

In an attempt to save money and to put collegiate athletic departments in the black, the NCAA Council sent a memorandum to all NCAA athletic directors throughout the country concerning cost cutbacks in college and university athletics.

West Texas State University's head football coach and athletic director Gene Mayfield received the memorandum listing several suggestions on cutting back the athletic budget.

"The list contains only suggestions but it's possible they will be put into effect soon," Mayfield said.

In the area of financial aid, the NCAA suggests limiting football scholarships to 90, basketball scholarships to 16 and a total in other sports to 80 scholarships. It is also suggested that the $15 monthly payment to athletes for incidentals be eliminated.

According to Mayfield, the limit on the number of scholarships would not have much of an effect at WT. Presently there are 105 football scholarships and 18 basketball scholarships.

In recruiting, the NCAA Council suggests restricting the number of paid visits to the college campus by prospective athletes.

The list of suggestions also put limitations on the number of coaches on the staff. The football staff would be limited to eight and the basketball coaching staff to two.

Again, Mayfield pointed out that there would be no adverse effects at WT if a limited coaching staff rule was passed by the NCAA.

The NCAA Council suggested the travelling squads be limited to 45 in football and 12 in basketball and the length of seasons in all sports be reduced.

One item on the list is one Mayfield has been pushing in the Missouri Valley Conference. The NCAA suggests, and Mayfield agrees, that in-person scouting be eliminated. "Instead of spending $150 to send a coach to scout an opponent, I would rather have a firm film exchange," he said. "As it stands now, there is no real guarantee we will receive scouting films," he added.

According to Mayfield, it is possible the NCAA Council will meet sometime during the summer in a special session to adopt their suggestions and put them into effect.

Last year's All-MVC tight end Merced Solis watches the ball slip through his fingers in Saturday night's WTSU Varsity-Alumni game. Solis and his alumni teammates were blasted by the varsity 52-6. The game ended the Buff's spring drills which coach Gene Mayfield commented on as being "reasonably good."

Buffs End Drills By Trouncing Alumni

The West Texas State University Buffaloes ended spring training Saturday night before approximately 2500 fans as they went against 55 former Buff players.

The varsity, despite the absence of 15 players on the injured list, proved to be too much for the alumni as next fall's Buffaloes won the contest 52-6.

Spring drills began April 3 and as the month progressed, injuries plagued the efforts of the team and coaches. Coach Gene Mayfield, commenting on the last month's work, said "In spite of the injuries, I feel reasonably good about our spring practice."

Defensively, Mayfield pointed out some bright spots for the upcoming football season. Tommy Mills, a junior college transfer, made a good showing throughout spring practice but also proved himself as a capable punt returner by his performance in the Varsity-Alumnae game, according to Mayfield. Cornerback Mike Williams also drew praise from Mayfield for his efforts in the secondary during spring drills.

"I wish we could have made more progress at the linebacking positions," the head coach said. "Larry Spears took up where he left off last fall, but injuries hampered progress at the other linebacker positions," Mayfield added.

Defensive end John Ayers and defensive tackles Floyd Jones and Mike Lusane were commended for their efforts in spring drills. Speaking of Jones and Lusane, Mayfield said "I expect so much from them because they are topnotch players, I might possibly expect too much.

"I was well pleased with Mishael Kelson and Mike Lozano in the secondary," Mayfield said.

Throughout the spring drills, the offense was hurt the most by injuries.

With the graduation of All-MVC wide receiver Tracy Dickson, a gapping hole has been left in the Buffalo offensive punch. To add to the dismay of Mayfield and his staff, the two candidates in line for the position, Greg Forbes and Mickey Matthews, were both on the spring injury list.

At the tight end position, Mayfield has been more fortunate in the replacing of another All-MVC player, Merced Solis. "Keith Oxley has made a lot of progress at tight end," Mayfield said.

The offensive tackles and guards saw limited action in spring drills. Guard Bob Brown missed part of the spring session and guard Greg Whetstone missed all of the spring drills. Tackles John Jacobi and Jeff Loyd were also slowed by injuries.

Jackie White has been moved from guard to center and, according to Mayfield, "has a lot of potential."

Quarterback Tully Blanchard improved in his throwing and the position is one of depth because of backup quarterback Tracy Qualls. "Tracy came around more than I anticipated in spring practice," Mayfield stated.

Depth can also be found at the running back position. The host of backs include John Paul Lee, Freddie Turner, Anthony Dogan, Richard Riggins, Curtis Clinton, Cloyce Burgess, and Eddie Richardson.

The Buffalo kicking game is another bright spot for next year's football season.

Place kicker Bruce Wyre converted seven of seven PATs and connected on a 32-yard field goal against the alumni Saturday night.

Punter John Paul Lee booted a 63-yard punt in Saturday night's game and averaged 50.5 yards.

"Overall, I feel pretty good about next year's team," Mayfield said.

New Course At CHS

By BOB SCHNEIDER

There is something new and exciting this year in the English curriculum at Canyon High School. It's called the "Honors Reading Program." Mrs. Ruth Holladay, curriculum director for the Canyon Independent School District, is responsible for the development and organization of the course.

Operating as an experimental course, the "Honors Reading Program" is a local elective course with a selective and limited enrollment. Thirteen senior students of top grade achievement in English are enrolled at this time. Students are not required to meet daily for a traditional English class, but have one daily class period designated as "English" during which they do independent study, reading, or conference with teachers. Students are required to meet one night each week for discussion of the designated literary work for that week. Ten different teachers serve as discussion leaders. One meets with the group each week and is responsible for directing that particular study. Students are not tested during the course but are required to summarize and evaluate the entire course at the final session. Students receive one quarter local credit for the course.

A typical "Honors Reading Program" session, usually held in the discussion leader's home, includes discussion of the author's background, analysis of the literary elements, the social and philosophical implications and, finally, critical analysis of the work. Students feel free to comment and discuss because of the informality of the sessions.

John Watkins, one of the students now enrolled in the program, commented, "I like the program because it takes place outside the traditional classroom, and the literature selections are very good."

The books that are studied during the quarter are selected jointly by the teachers and students from a list compiled by the entire English staff. Among those studied by the experimental group this quarter are "I'm OK — You're OK," "Candide," "St. Joan," "The Lark," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "King Lear," "I Will Be Called John," and the Book of Luke from the Bible. The Students are required to buy their own copies of the books. Costs range from 45 cents to $3.50. Students are not usually required to spend more than ten dollars during the entire course.

The "Honors Reading Program" is designed to generate interest in reading books considered to be the best of our literary heritage. The students encounter the major values and concerns of our society through timeless pieces of literature.

When asked his reaction to the program, Russell Killingsworth, the 1975 Valedictorian of Canyon High School, said, "It's one of the greatest programs they've come up with. It gives us the opportunity to study and discuss books that would not be presented in the ordinary classroom. Also, I like meeting the class at night in a relaxed atmosphere."

Students and teachers are not the only persons involved in the "Honors Reading Program." It also solicits the services and knowledge of qualified persons in the community. Rev. Terry White served as one of the first discussion leaders for the group. He too stated that the informality of the meetings is one of the program's greatest strengths. John Sommer, high school principal, has also served as a discussion leader. This opportunity enabled him to establish rapport with the students in a different atmosphere than that found in his daily routine at school. Rev. White also feels that the focus on values in this seminar-structured course is important to the enrichment of the student's ethics and integrity.

While the "Honors Reading Program" is only experimental and a local elective now, the administration hopes it will find a permanent place in the curriculum at Canyon High School. Mrs. Holladay has already proposed the course to the Texas Education Agency. In a letter she received from the Agency, they commended her and her staff for "developing such a course for the gifted." After its evaluation this spring, if it proves to be a successful course, the Texas Education Agency will allow credit to be given toward the basic sixteen units of graduation.

Trackster Wins Top Award

Canyon High School has it's first state champion in girl's track since the school began competing in girl's track five years ago.

Penny Peckenpaugh took top honors in the class AAA girl's state discus throw by tossing the discus 123 feet at the state meet held at Austin Saturday, May 3.

The throw was not only the best in Class AAA but also the best in all classes attending the meet including the class AAAA winning throw.

Sprinter Deedy Johnson, a sophomore, was qualifier for the state meet as a sprinter and placed fourth in the 60-yard dash with a time of 7.1 and placed sixth in the 100-yard dash with a time of 11.4. In both sprint races, new national records were set. Times of 6.8 in the 60 and 10.9 in the 100-yard dash were registered and declared national schoolgirl records.

Another Canyon High School qualifier attending the meet, Louise Davis, placed sixth in the triple jump with a leap of 35-3 and three fourths. This jump was an improvement of two feet over her previous attempts this season.

The 440-yard relay team also competed in Austin and placed seventh. Members of the team included Deedy Johnson, Louise Davis, Marci Davis and Vickie Miller.

This weekend, two CHS thinclads will travel to Austin for the boys state track meet.

Garre LaGrone and Adrain Foil qualified for the state event two weeks ago in the regional track meet held in Odessa.

LaGrone will be pole vaulting and Foil will be competing in the broad jump event.

up?"

Johnston and Workman said their inspections of the campus reveal that much more is involved in the area of dangerous practices than just an inadequate and antiquated fire protection system.

"None of the electrical systems are up to code," Workman said.

He said only the new library building and science buildings have third wire grounding in their electrical systems. National safety standards require third-wire grounding in all construction projects, he said, but the recently-constructed University Complex South and the Activities Center were wired without the third-wire ground.

"They've done that to save money," Workman said. "You can knock 10 per cent off a wiring job by not putting in the third-wire ground. That's the reason, plus the thing I've heard 1000 times — we don't have to."

Workman said the electrical system on campus "scares me to death." He said it is possible that without the third-wire ground, instructors or students could be killed in the event a piece of equipment short-circuits.

Nationally-recognized standards for electrical wiring safety, he said, call for a third-wire ground with a maximum resistance of 25 to 50 ohms to ground so that if a piece of equipment shorts the person using the equipment does not become the third wire.

"You could check 100 sockets on this campus and you wouldn't find two that have a third-wire ground," he said.

Workman said that even if third-wire grounding were available in the electrical systems on campus, the equipment issued by the university for classroom use has been tampered with so that it cannot be grounded.

He said most projectors, carousel slide projectors and similar equipment have had the third-wire ground plug cut off, so it is unusable.

While the fire protection system and the electrical systems are major dangers, Workman and Johnston said there are other practices on campus which are diametrically opposed to good safety practices.

They cited, for example, the use by janitorial help in the new Science Building of a highly toxic and highly flammable fluid to remove wax from the buildings' floors.

The liquid, they said, is put in the floors with electrically-operated buffers, the motors of which produce sparks.

With proper ventilation virtually impossible in the confines of the Science Building, they said, janitorial help could become permanently injured just from use of the liquid.

But, they said, the use of the liquid makes it entirely possible that "we're in danger of blowing the new Science Center up."

Workman and Johnston also point to practices in the university's art department, where acetyline welding torches are being used in poorly ventilated areas, and where possible fire escape routes are blocked by boxes and crates.

Workman believes his committee could be an asset to the university if it was allowed to perform the function for which it was designed.

May Weather's Here

By DORIS McKEE

HERE IT IS already May and moving along pretty hurriedly. The first thing we know school will be out for summer vacation.

Seems most everyone I called this week just stayed home by themselves. At least that's what they told me.

EUNICE RINEHART IS home from the hospital and doing well. Her daughter-in-law, Jo, came Saturday and brought flowers from her yard then Sunday Jo, Bob and son, Brent, came out for a visit.

FAYE RISNER'S MOTHER, Mrs. C. A. Dodson went home from the hospital last week. Seems she is still not feeling too well, and was put back ing the hospital the first of this week.

TALKED TO FAYE Conner and she said they had company last weekend. Felton's younger brother and family, Cecil, Donleta and Cecil Martin Conner of Junction, Texas were here. Also Mr. Bundick, Donleta's father came with them. Everyone had a real nice visit.

FRIDAY WAS A long day for me. I was one of the mothers who took a carload of fifth graders on their field trip.

We went to the museum and spent a couple of hours. Then to Palo Duro Park where they took a guided hike which most everyone went on and seemed to enjoy. After this was lunch time, then play time for all.

We made it back to school just in time to catch the buses. Faye Conner of Siesta also took a car.

FRIDAY NIGHT TOD McKee went to Donnie Trammell's to spent the night and all day Saturday. On Saturday Tod, Donnie and his brother, Chris went fishing. Didn't catch much, but sure did have a lot of fun.

Oh yes, a belated happy birthday wish to Chris Trammell, who celebrated on Friday, May 2nd.

PECK RISNER WAS in Oklahoma City the first of this week for a checkup on his ear. He had surgery on an ear the latter part of last year.

CALLED SHARON JONES to see how things were going at their place. She said they were just routine.

She is still taking the course to become a nurses aide. Said they had completed classroom study and at present are working at High Plains Hospital. Just three weeks until graduation.

THE BLUEBIRDS ARE still making trips. Last week they went to the Pizza Hut and were shown how everything worked.

After the tour, they were served pizza and coke, compliments of the Pizza Hut.

This week they are working on Mothers' Day gifts.

ON SATURDAY DIANA and Christy Hoffman and myself decided to go on a shopping spree. So off to Lubbock we went. We had been planning this for quite awhile, but things had happened to prevent it until now.

We got to my mother's, Mrs. Ethel Weaver, at about 10:15. Christy stayed there with her and DeAnn, and Diana and I went to the mall. We looked and shopped for several hours, then back to mother's. Mother had fixed dinner for us.

We stayed and visited a while, then the girls and us came home. All in all it was a very nice day.

TALKED TO LINDA Shaffer Monday morning and she said they were all very tired. She, Kenneth and the boys had been to the country over the weekend and worked at getting things ready to move, when school is out. They will be moving between Shamrock and Wheeler, Texas.

MYSELF ALONG WITH quite a few others from the park attended the PTA meeting at Gene Howe Monday night. The new officers for next year's PTA were installed, of which I was one.

I will be reporting the Gene Howe news come fall. It was a very cute program put on by the first grades.

DON'T KNOW ANYMORE news for this week, so will put the cap on the pen for now. Keep on reading.

This weeks thought, "What is Mom? Someone who loves you all the time, someone who kisses away the hurts and pains, someone who takes care of you till you're grown, then worries about you from then on."

See ya. Doris McKee

TEXAS TALK

By Tom Lytle

Two major classes of sorghum are grown in the United States. Sweet Sorghum or Sorgo accounts for about 20% of the crop and is grown for forage, silage and sorghum (often called cane) syrup. The vast majority of the crop is grain sorghum. Although grain sorghum is grown predominantly for the grain, it also acts as a dual purpose plant with stalks commonly used as forage or silage. Experts don't always agree on world sorghum production but they generally acknowledge that a least 125 million acres are now used for planting sorghum crops. Use of sorghum as a food grain in China, Africa and India ranks sorghum with corn as a contender for the third most important food grain in the world (behind wheat and rice). All estimates are not yet in for this year's acreage in grain sorghum, but indications are, although local areas may show some increase, the national crop could be reduced as much as 5 percent.

Profit Maker for the Plains!

Pioneer® brand 828 is one of the highest yielding sorghums you can plant. It responds well to good management on good land with plenty of water. Many Plains growers like 828 because it holds its quality and threshes well even after an early freeze or snow. Semi-compact heads of dark red grain on sturdy stalks make Pioneer brand 828 a beauty in the field.

River Running By WT Professor

A West Texas State University physical education instructor has been featured in the spring edition of "Frontier Magazine," a publication of Frontier Airlines.

The article features Jack Tillinghast of WTSU and Woodrow Hassinger, a pilot for Frontier and their recently formed river running outfit.

In May of last year, the two got together and formed Frontier Expeditions, a five-day float down the Salmon River in Idaho.

Tillinghast has been engaged in river running for the last 15 years and has travelled over 8,000 miles down the fast river waters of the Northwest.

Each expedition down the part of the Salmon River called The River of No Return lasts for five days. Tillinghast and his associates spend the entire summer guiding adventure seekers down the 70-mile stretch of river.

Last summer, the river running outfit took over 200 river runners through the dozens of rapids in the River of No Return.
